In 2014, Dickson technical textiles are making their way into the outdoor spotlight and affirming more than ever their positioning as the must-have material for summer decorating, both in terms of trend-setting designs and high-performance protection and durability. Dickson awning fabrics are increasingly in step with the times, bowing to the new king of the outdoor scene – the almighty pergola! Sunbrella fabrics are playing the creative eco-friendly card with the new Renaissance line and hitting the high seas with the Imagine marine collection.

Dickson's revolutionary woven flooring is paving a whole new approach to outdoor living that withstands even the harshest weather conditions and non-stop summer sun!

THE NEW UV FILTERS

Updating the codes for this niche, Dickson brightens the outlook for the sunny summer days ahead with gorgeous, cutting-edge shade for inside and out. Taking the latest interior decorating trends outside, they've adopted sleek, soothing lines that protect today's nature lovers from the harmful effects of UV rays.

PERGOLAS

ARE WHERE IT'S AT

This summer, pergolas are breaking away from classic codes and the Dutch Cubola® concept is ushering in geometric lines akin to elegant origami art thanks to Dickson's cutting-edge innovations. With the Sunworker, Orchestra Max (self-cleaning) or Alto FR (fire-retardant), Cubola® is bending over backwards to give outdoor living creative new styles for everyday designer looks that stand out and make sense!

THE CHIC RENAISSANCE

Dickson presents Sunbrella® Renaissance, the first collection of outdoor textiles made with up to 50% recycled fibres taken directly from the Dickson factory.

The remnants are divided into colour groups, and then reduced into fibres that are combined with “virgin” Sunbrella® fibres to weave the Renaissance® fabric. Comprised of 16 beautiful references, this eco-friendly fabric was chosen by the designer Lionel Doyen to upholster his innovative outdoor ottoman with a totally creative patchwork.

THE RIGHT STUFF FOR THE SEA

Dickson introduces Imagine, a new Sunbrella® Marine collection that breaks away from traditional seafaring fabric codes. Bold and stylish, this new designer fabric is refreshingly original with casual denim, contemporary jacquards and updated sailor stripes.

So even if everyone can't own a yacht, the fabrics made specifically for them can give anyone's cushions, deck chair pads and other outdoor furnishings a chic, elegant, beachy look and feel!
